

October 14, 2011 in the presence of Sarah Connell and Janese Bechtol

16 BY MS. FERRELL:

* 17 Q Mr. Slate, did you ever work for the police
18 complaint center or policeabuse.com?

* 19 A No.

20 Q Mr. Slate, what is your profession?

21 A What is my profession?

22 Q Yes, what do you do for a living?

23 A I am a landlord.

24 Q You are a landlord, okay, so you have never
25 worked for a police complaint center or policeabuse.com,

• 4 Q No, that wasn't the question. The question is,
5 have you ever worked for policeabuse.com, because you said
6 to the judge that you never worked for the police
7 complaint center, and what we have is video of you walking
8 down doing police investigations with policeabuse.com
9 police complaint center as director underneath it in a
10 coat that I boxed up and sent to you because you were cold
11 in Chicago. Do you not remember that footage of an 12 investigation that you did?

• 13 A No, I don't.

14 Q You are kidding, all right. Your Honor, that is 15 what is on that disc, Your Honor. What is on that disc is 16 evidence.

1 MS. FERRELL: Your Honor, if they know, if they
2 know that their client is lying, isn't that unethical?

3 ~~THE COURT:~~ Yes:

4 MS. FERRELL: It's unethical that they know that
5 he is lying and they know what he is doing to me if
6 they've seen the evidence --

7 THE COURT: It's unethical, it's unethical for 8 them to elicit testimony that they believe to be perjury.

9 MS. FERRELL: Okay. That's just what I wanted
10 to hear. This has got to end. I can't believe it, Your 11 Honor, but, you know, you guys are in it together.

17 ~~MS. BECHTOL:~~ Your Honor, may the petitioner's
18 presence be waived at that hearing?

19 MS. FERRELL: No.

20 THE COURT: I will, I mean, he doesn't have to 21 be here.* I don't know what's going to come up so I'm 22 hesitant to tell him that he shouldn't be here but --

23 MS. BECHTOL: All right. Thank you.
